

FUTURE OF SPORTS IN FAIR HONOLULU

Tennis, Swimming, Polo, Regatta
and Maybe National Pastime
Will Soon Be in Vogue

May 1 will usher in the outdoor sports season in Honolulu, and what the harvest will be for the fans is causing them no little worry. First will come the baseball season, the Oahu Leaguers starting their 1915 season May 2. Later in the week the inter-island tennis championship series will be inaugurated. June 11, will come the annual swimming meet of the Hawaiian branch of the Amateur Athletic Union. September 20 will be Regatta Day.

For the baseball season, the fans will have the Ahaia, Punahou, St. Louis Alumni, All-Army and Portuguese Athletic Club teams of Honolulu and the Stanford University team of California in a series of games. Later on the All-Chinese team will take part in the series.

For the tennis matches, the followers of this sport will have the men's singles and men's doubles, the ladies' singles and ladies' doubles and mixed doubles for the championships of the Hawaiian Islands. There will also be the inter-club matches for the Wall & Doughterty cup.

For the swimming races, it is expected that the best men and boy swimmers of the Islands will compete, and likewise that there will be an event for women swimmers. Whether an effort will be made to adopt the Australian system of handicap races remains to be seen, but it is the consensus of opinion among the devotees of the pastime that this system be adopted, for it will greatly help to bring the pastime up to the high standard it deserves.

For the regatta, it is the intention of the Honolulu Yacht Club to seek admission into the Hawaiian Rowing Association and to enter crews in the various races pulled off on Regatta Day. Should the Honolulu be admitted to the association, rowing will take a step forward. In the past but two clubs, the Healanis and Myrtles, have competed, and these have lacked real enthusiasm. The men handling the oars have been painstaking in their endeavors to bring out the best talent and to make the meets worth while, but lack of real competition has hindered their efforts. With a third club in the swim, interest is bound to become greater and the competition keener. Some time between the first of May and the last of October the Hawaiian Polo Association will pull off their preliminary matches and island championship matches, and with two teams from Oahu, two from Maui and two Army teams in the fray some decidedly interesting matches can be expected by the followers of the enlivening pastime.

Prospects are bright for the playing of many of the polo matches at Kapalani Park, and efforts are now being made by the Polo Association toward securing a long term lease on the park for this purpose. Not deprecating Moanalua Field for polo matches, Kapalani Park would be better, for then every body interested in the pastime could avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing this great sport. Within a short time it is expected that the arrangements for the use of Kapalani Park as a polo field will be completed and the field put in proper shape for the playing of the preliminary and championship matches.

Of course the golfers will continue driving the little white globe through valley and over the hills at the Oahu Country Club, at Moanalua and at Schofield Barracks.

Outside of baseball, none of these sports fill in continuously on a Saturday and Sunday. Therefore, if the national game is to drop here for the time being, what is the follower of outdoor athletics going to do for his amusement?

Bicycle and motorcycle racing might be brought into the limelight, and with the fans not likely to fall over each other in quest of baseball, the staging of bicycle and motorcycle races looks like a good proposition for some sport likely to interest the fans. Interest in bicycle racing is only waiting for something to turn up. The Antler motor race at Kapalani Park last January brought out a big crowd, and so did the meet held by the carnival sports committee. Several weeks ago several gentlemen interested in bike racing looked over the field and showed an inclination to start something. Then their interest waned and since then little has been said about reviving the pastime.

Boxing is now here, and even the bona fide amateur cannot deny the merits without taking a chance of running afoul of the law. Moving pictures of fights do not seem to be taboo, though, but one who cares for boxing does not care for the pictures.

Horse racing is likewise now in Honolulu, and not a sign appears on the horizon tending to revive the sport, and the chances of pulling off a race meet here are as remote as having a boxing match.

The territorial grand jury will meet at two o'clock next Thursday afternoon in the judiciary building.

GEOGRAPHY IS IN IMMENSE DEMAND

Children and Teachers of Islands and Folk on Mainland
Want Literature

Something new seems to be coming over the spirit in which geography is being taught. Superintendent Kinney of the department of education says he doesn't know what it is or where it can have originated, but that it is abroad in the land is manifest at the office of the Hawaii promotion committee.

Both children and teachers are writing in for railway and steamship folders that show lines of travel. Many personal inquiries come from here in Honolulu, but there are even more letters from the mainland and from the other Islands.

Children and teachers in the Islands seem to be chiefly interested in the arteries of railway communication on the mainland. Those in the States seem to be chiefly interested in the lanes of steamship travel. They all ask with surprising definiteness for exactly what they want.

In reply to these letters, a large supply of promotion committee literature about the Islands is going out in a steady stream.

And it is the most valuable publicity the Islands could have, says A. P. Taylor, acting secretary of the committee. "No interest has to be stimulated; it is there already. We have only to feed it with the information that is asked, and we know exactly what is wanted."

PRESS ON LOSS OF
THE SUBMARINE F-4

Nothing to Mitigate Tragedy

Boston Post:—"The disaster to the United States submarine in the deep waters of the Pacific off Honolulu has nothing to mitigate its tragedy. It presents a sharp example of the perilous nature of the service beneath the sea."

Submarine Hulled

Albany Knickerbocker Press:—"The tragedy calls to mind that not until the war is over will the world at large know how many submarine hulks litter the bottom of the North Sea, the Mediterranean and the Atlantic."

The First Accident

Philadelphia Bulletin:—"It deserves to be noted that not only is this the first accident of such a serious character which has occurred in American submarine operations, but it is the first time that the life of a man in the American navy has been sacrificed in the underwater maneuvering."

Those Who Woo Peril

Philadelphia Public Ledger:—"Life under the ocean wave offers all of the discomforts and none of the compensations of ordinary seafaring existence. Yet those who woo peril, like a lover accept their duty manfully and offer no complaint."

Cause of Accident

Waterfront Times:—"The cause of this accident is not known and may never be known, unless the submarine is recovered. It simply made a plunge while in practice and did not come up again."

Honor Their Memory

Syracuse Herald:—"We can only give to the victims a mood of heartfelt compassion and honor the memory of them as men who died as truly in their country's service as if they had paid their last and greatest tribute of devotion to the flag in the dreadful shock of war."

A Terrible Situation

Savannah News:—"It is difficult to imagine a more terrible situation than that of the crew of a submarine boat that is trapped at the bottom of deep water and waits for slow death."

JAPANESE SEAMEN
LEAVE THEIR SHIP

Five Japanese seamen took French leave from their ship, the Kaifu Maru, at Kahului, but with one exception they all have been rounded up.

Three of them swam ashore and two stole a small boat. One man voluntarily surrendered and the other three were caught. All were natives either of Kagoshima or Tokushima provinces, and the variation in their dialect made it difficult for them to obtain assistance in hiding.

The Kaifu Maru was laden with brick and cement for the Kahului railroad. Under the law, the ship is liable to a fine of $500 for each deserter not brought back, and every effort is being made to round up the single sailor still missing.

Under a resolution adopted in the house of representatives on Saturday the Congress of the United States is asked to "enact legislation under and by the terms of which the survivors of the crew" of the F-4 "shall either be pensioned or shall be otherwise provided for by liberal appropriations."

Speaker Holtstein said that resolution would be the last he would father at this session.

SENATE STANDS FOR STATEHOOD

Solons Firm in Opinion That Kishi's Bill is Moral Obligation

House concurrent resolution 21, memorializing congress for the statehood of Hawaii Territory, was passed in the senate on Saturday.

Senator Rice had discovered that the resolution was not new in its language. It seemed that A. L. Castle, in 1911, had drawn up just such a resolution. Senator Castle blushed at the knowledge, though he was not quite sure, at first, that the second paragraph was a child of his brain. Later he admitted the original authorship.

Senator Penhallow was for eliminating the second paragraph, but thought better of it after general discussion. The resolution requests congress to pass an enabling act authorizing the citizens of Hawaii to elect delegates to a constitutional convention for the purpose of framing a constitution for the government of the State of Hawaii.

The second paragraph, or "whereas," which caused the comment, read: "Whereas annexation by the resolution, in the long ago, but the senator modestly declared that he did not talk for the sake of getting in the record."

While on the matter of speeches, it must be recorded that Saturday was the forty-first anniversary of the birth of Ambrose B. Wirtz. This fact came out through a beautiful cluster of flowers appearing on his desk, backed up by the further evidence of a new necktie. When a messenger brought in a parcel that looked suspiciously like a box of cigars, an unofficial investigation was instituted with the result that Rice drew attention to the package when Wirtz took the dais as chairman of committee of the whole.

Wirtz mapped out his program before Rice spoke, however, and the cigars were passed around to all. Confessing to the tie, Wirtz said his five-year-old pal had given him that, while the twelve-year-old pal was responsible for the flowers. Senator Coke had presented the cigars. The senate extended congratulations and Senator Wirtz expressed appreciation.

Kishi Must Be Paid

Attorney General Stainback was discovered in the senate chamber, not saying a word, but looking sad. Other business of the senate was suspended, temporarily, while the members eagerly inquired what he had decided in the matter of the status of the $12,000 that was due Kishi, the Japanese caterer-contractor, who had supplied immigrants with food for which he had never been paid.

Attorney General Stainback briefly stated that he was prepared to give a verbal report. He thought perhaps the senate would prefer a verbal report at this time to waiting longer for a written report. He said that as far as any moral responsibility on the part of the legislature was concerned, he did not think that the Territory was obliged to pay for the food consumed by immigrants for whom the federal government was responsible while they were in quarantine. The owners of the ship that brought the immigrants had put up a $20,000 bond with the federal quarantine people to cover costs of quarantine, and the bond had not been sufficient. The Territory was not responsible for the immigrants were not taken in the hands of the territorial officials. He thought the only way the auditor of the Territory could be brought to issue a warrant for $12,000 to the order of Kishi, for whom the legislature had passed a reimbursement law, was by mandamus.

Sensors Metzger and Rice both declared that there was no doubt but what the legislature was morally responsible for the Kishi bill. Two years ago the matter had been gone into thoroughly and it was then determined that the territorial immigration authorities had practically acknowledged the Territory's moral responsibility to the Kishi matter. The correspondence between the federal quarantine authorities and the immigration commissioners would show this. The senate is determined that Kishi shall get his money, whether by concurrent resolution or otherwise.

Metzger remarked that the situation as far as Kishi was concerned was next to an outrage and if there was anything the legislature could do further than had already been done, it was a matter of justice that should be attended to.

Woman Suffrage Waits

House Concurrent Resolution 24, requesting the Delegate to Congress to urge upon congress the passage of an amendment to the Organic Act, so that the right to vote be extended to women, was deferred till Monday since Senator Deane was absent, and it was agreed that it would hardly be fair to consider this matter in the absence of the orator from Hawaii who would doubtless desire to make an extended speech on the subject. Deane is a champion for woman suffrage.

Chance To Talk Automobile

The senate military committee meets in senate chamber, on Monday morning at nine o'clock, to consider House Bill 321, being an act to regulate the use of motor vehicles. This is a bill which is interesting a great many people, and all who wish to make any suggestion, or who want to be heard on the subject, are invited and are welcome.
